If genes mean anything, the new '60s songbook Happy Together by Lee Newman should be a hit. He is the great grandson of Eddie Cantor and the grandson of Jimmy McHugh, who composed I Can't Give You Anything but Love, Baby and Sunny Side of the Street. Both those grandfathers are showbusiness legends. I realize my own age because I was friends of both.

The album includes the Beatles' Help, which John Lennon himself wanted to re-record. Lennon, the composer, wanted to record the tune as a ballad, the way he originally envisioned the tune. Newman's version is the way Lennon wanted to do it. The album will be released April 24 on SLK Records.
